

Training Agreement

Home Instead CAREGivers are the heart of our highly personalized care. As you join the Home Instead Senior Care team, you will complete a comprehensive, multi-phased training program both before you meet or serve a client and over your first six months of being a CAREGiver.

Your training will consist of both online training modules and in-person training classes in our office.

Once you have completed your training you will be a Personal Care Homemaker, certified to work with all Home Instead clients.

Training is an important part of our brand promise of highly trained CAREGivers. Therefore, Home Instead invests time, energy and dollars into our CAREGivers, both during the initial training phase and in on-going development. To recognize and protect this training investment, all new employees of Home Instead agree to the following:

1. Employee will complete these online training modules prior to any in-person training:
 - Module 1: Caregiving Core Values
 - Module 2: Personal Care Skills
2. Employee will complete the full in-person personal care training with an RN and pass the written and practical assessments prior to working with Home Instead clients.
3. Employee will complete the online training modules during their first six months according to the schedule in the CAREGiver Guide which you can access at this link:
4. If the Employee terminates their employment with Home Instead during their initial six months of employment, employee agrees to pay back the training costs incurred by Home Instead for training courses completed:
